Editorial Review

From the Author

The second book in The Timkers series, Deja Vu, picks up the story of a brilliant young man who thinks as much about the past as he does the present. Is he still in love with Ruth, the girl he met in 1930 or does he love Avey, her great granddaughter? This story throws Sam and Avey to different extremes in time, as if some unseen force is trying to keep them apart. The story behind the story? I wanted to show my readers what the world might be like in the year 2084. Was George Orwell one-hundred years off? It's still a love story, of people trying to make a life in hard times and of devotion, sacrifice, and of mystery.

From the Back Cover

The cover was designed and created by the author using an image from the Hubble space telescope (courtesy of STScI) and photographs taken and edited by the author. The images of the Seattle Space Needle in context with the Seattle skyline (taken from Kerry Park) was approved by the Seattle Space Needle Corporation.

About the Author

WR Vaughn has been a storyteller from a very early age--perhaps from the time he had to explain why he was presenting his mom with a bunch of her own prized tulips. In 2011, his furtive imagination has spawned The Seldith Chronicles, a series of young adult books that follow the lives, exploits, and challenges of a clan of forest elves no taller than a mushroom.

In December of 2014, William took a new direction and published his first New Adult novel, The Timkers--A Stitch in Time, a series which follows Sam Harkins, a troubled young man running from the police only to find himself transported to 1930. There he meets Ruth Riley, the love of his life--only to be forced to leave her behind when the time police, the Timkers, catch up with him.

Before his fiction-writing career, William traveled the world as an Army brat and then as a technical speaker, mentor, and award-winning technical author. He's recognized and respected all over the world in countries where his books have been translated into six languages.

William is also an avid nature photographer and graphics artist. In 1986, he settled in Redmond, Washington at the edge of a forest teeming with story ideas.
